SACRED HEART ACADEMY
MOUNT PLEASANT, MICHIGAN

FOREWORD

Pope Pius XI, in one of his famous encyclicals, referred to Christian education as "the art of arts, and the science of sciences." With the ever increasing emphasis on learning and the enlargement of benefits we are receiving from our schools, the truth of this statement becomes more significant with each passing year.

As our realization of this fact has become clearer, so have truths we once accepted on faith alone. We, the Class of Nineteen Sixty One, accept with vision and hope the challenge of adulthood. Being the latest exponents of our educational system and American democracy, we have been endowed with a legacy unparalleled in its potential for good. It is our desire to improve upon this heritage for our successors as it has been developed for us.

DEDICATION

"All power is given to Me in Heaven and earth. Going therefore, teach all nations . . ." Because of Adam's sin we, his descendants, are born ignorant and in error, therefore God gave us a perfect Teacher, Christ, to instruct, to enlighten, and to inculcate virtue within us. He, the Educator Par Excellence, has presented to us the lessons of justice and charity. It is in Christ's teachings that we find the only effective means for individual growth and social progress. We can realize the meaning of life, the reason for our constant striving toward an increase in knowledge, and toward spiritual improvement in Him.

Yet, knowledge, however perfect, is incomplete unless it is complemented by love. Christ's infinite love for us was proved by His death on the Cross. Thus, Christ gave us the greatest lesson of love. "No greater love than this hath any man than that he lay down his life for a friend."

Our Christian education was begun so that we might be able to apply the lessons set forth by Christ throughout each class, each day, each year. If this system of education attains to the goals of establishing in its students physical fitness, economic competency, social virtue, cultural development, and both moral and spiritual perfection in Christ, then it achieves its purpose: namely, to make disciples of Christ.

OUR SPIRITUAL GROWTH

Wherein we are inspired:

- To acquire accurate religious knowledge
- To develop the habit of daily prayer and frequent reception of the sacraments
- To develop the sense of the presence of God as a preventive for sin
- To develop a love for Christ; a reverence for the Church which gives us His teachings, the Mass, and the Sacraments; and a desire to propagate the Faith
- To regard material things, not as an end in themselves, but as a means of attaining Eternal Life.

The Crucifix — from which St. Thomas Aquinas, patron of schools, once said he had learned everything — is presented by Monsignor Alt during the course of Holy Week to remind Seniors Ruth Ann Martin and Anthony Schafer of God's Infinite love for man.

It is the dream of every priest and most Catholics to journey to the capital of Christendom, — Rome. Not only did our Pastor, Monsignor Alt, fulfill this dream, but he also enjoyed an extended pilgrimage to various European shrines. His most memorable visit was his audience with Pope John XXIII. Because of its many historical and religious monuments, the Eternal City stands out as one of his deepest memories. In England, Monsignor was especially impressed by such sites of interest as the London Tower and Westminster Abbey. Spain, with its romantic backdrop of Moorish history, likewise intrigued him, as did his travels throughout France, to Paris, Lourdes, and Lyons.

OUR FAITH — OLD AND

Holy Mass, celebrated at eleven o'clock each day, helps to enrich and motivate student life at the Academy.

A late Mass also enables students to participate more fully by frequent reception of Holy Communion.

NEW — IS STRENGTHENED BY WISDOM AND LOVE

Religion, as the key subject, is vitalized and made a determining factor for the rest of the students' day by Father Malewitz.

Sometimes more light on the subject was shed by Father's stroll down an aisle.

One of Fall's first events of spiritual significance is the observance of Monsignor Alt's feast day by the entire student body. Highlighting this year's program was a tableau presentation of great Dominican Saints by members of the Senior class and the Academy Glee Club. Shown in the final scene above are, Sue Downing, Ruth Ann Martin, James Fabiano, Jeanette Tilmann, Becky Currant, Robert Witte, Mary Theisen, and Mary Ellen Dionise.

Father Malewitz and Jamie Kenney send students home to help out on a little vacation chore — the Thanksgiving Clothing Drive.

Faithful Academy organists, Judi Lanwehr, Anne Johnson, and John Tope share appointments as accompanists to student-sung Masses.

In October 243 young people received the Sacrament of Confirmation from His Excellency, Bishop Allen J. Babcock.

Senior Sodality officers Paul Fortino, Mary Ellen Dionise, Joanne Thering, and Judi Landwehr meet to discuss weekly apostolates.

Academy carolers — among them, Guylyn King, Jill Kelly, Janet Johnson, Connie Huber and Carol Silvernail — set out on the traditional caroling tour of Mount Pleasant.

Class presidents present homeroom Advent wreaths to be blessed by Monsignor Alt.

Sodalists Fred Hauck and Mary Pelletier bring two of their little charges from the State Home and Training school to see their Little King.

A parish organization vitally interested in the educational advancement of students attending the Academy is the Sacred Heart Home and School Association. In addition to frequent and informative meetings, a cooperative spirit is further assured by the Parent-Teacher Conference held at the close of the First Marking Period. Above, Mr. William Kelly, president, and his daughter Maureen meet with Sister M. Agatha.

INTELLECTUAL GROWTH

Wherein we are inspired:

- To realize fully that God made us to know Him, to love Him, and to serve Him in this world, so that we may be happy with Him forever in Heaven
- To develop a desire for learning, not only as a means of livelihood, but also as a means of knowing God better.
- To cultivate a command of the fundamental processes
- To seek guidance in spiritual matters and in selecting curricular and vocational activities which will best meet the needs of body and soul

Junior English "pioneers" discover the American Spirit in literature.

Seniors discuss the rules of the annual Serra Essay Contest with Sister Jordan, English IV teacher. Three of the group took top honors, with Joseph Sweeney placing first in the diocesan competition.

ENGLISH AND SPEECH CLASSES

Acads put their functional English to good use in transit to classes.

Sister M. Terencia awards coveted certificates to two Sophomore bards, John Johnson and Margaret Fabiano for poems published in the National Anthology of High School Poetry.

Mary Jo Forton volunteers as teacher's aid in the daily dozens of a poetry unit in English IV.

Sacred Heart's debate team of Senior Joseph Sweeney and Sophomore John Johnson took both District and Regional honors, and moved into state finals this year.

Joseph Sweeney, representing the affirmative stand on UN issue, vies for a thousand dollar scholarship in the state-wide eliminations.

DEVELOP PERSONALITY

The adventures of Hick Finn are recreated as a humorous reading by Mary C. Eppe.

Senior speech students, M. Dionise, S. Powell, M. Theisen, J. Nowland, M. Kelly, C. Adams, and J. Landwehr make their "hard choice" of scripts as the local contest nears.

Spring Forensic Time is welcomed by Sharon Hackett, Rudelle Williams and Karen Hackett, — enthusiastic participants in the Humorous Reading Division.

Mrs. Maxwell's Latinites, Linda Randy and James Cain, go over "what might have been," had Ben Hur lost the chariot race.

The Mighty Caesar makes "extra credit" reading a pleasure for Sophs Jacqueline Campbell and Margaret Fabiano.

TYROS IN THE LANGUAGE ARTS

The rigors of Latin translations are endured by Michael South, Diane Myshock, and Marilyn Rezspecki.

A library pass means a passport to learning to many Acads.

Miss Agnes Murphy lends ready service to John Tope.

Even though the tides of the Modern History class rise and fall in regular chapters, Mr. Lewicki and Sophomores find time for weekly discussions of present-day news.

PROS IN THE SOCIAL STUDIES

The voting franchise comes to Sacred Heart . . . Jim Hayden, Kathleen Gallagher and Theresa Wohlsheid make their guarded choice for the 1960 presidential Elections. A landslide victory went to Mr. John F. Kennedy.

Map study on a national scale calls for frequent pin-pointing, and Mr. Morris, American History teacher, never misses, nor disappoints his alert class.

Connie Huber, Michael Falon, and Evelyn Pety prove themselves, — and a difficult problem in Algebra I class.

Sophomores Julie Beltinck, Ginger Scheid, Jim Sweeney, Jessica Hartman, and Jodi Theisen find that lines can converge to form intricate and elaborate geometric designs.

Mathematics Instructor, Sister M. Lamberta, rules "concentration" as Axiom Number One for members of Algebra II class.

Richard Rogers demonstrates a trigonometry problem to the satisfaction of both teacher and class.

MATH AND COMMERCIAL COURSES ARE

Junior typists "depress on" toward greater proficiency and speed by group competition.

Senior stenographers Betty MacDonald and Jeanette Tilmann take special pride in their modern office "toy," the stenorette, — purchased with their turkey raffle profits.

"Dear Mr. Rogers," reads Mary Madeline Pety while Shorthand I students file away another lesson in secretarial lore.

DESIGNED FOR MAXIMUM SKILL

An inclined plane experiment intrigues Anne Johnson and Linda Stevens during Physics lab.

Lucinda Fletcher and Patricia Welniak study the ups and downs of pulleys while Sister Faith double-checks on their precision.

Roy Hauvick and Michael Voisin examine a device geared for weather calculations in General Science classes.

SCIENTIFIC PURSUITS RESULT

Jim Sweeney, Joe Horgan, Sandy Fortino, and Eileen Gillis go sleuthing with the microscope.

The Chemistry Club convenes to work out new formulae for "a better world through chemistry."

Rudelle Williams, who placed first in the Senior High Division at the Midland Science Fair and won a trip to the Nationals, explains the intricacies of her project to budding scientists.

IN NEW DISCOVERIES

The suspense of the entrants heightens as the judges tally their decisions with Sister M. Faith.

Budding scientists from Sacred Heart Grade School also get a showing at the fair, — with prizes going to Elementary, Intermediate, and Primary divisions.

Michael Traux, showing his proficiency in the biology field, points out a vital subject to admiring visitors.

Vicki Breidenstein and Esther Huber find that revision of copy can even happen in the final stage, — the stencil.

Rick Witte learns the art of handling the styles in preparing his stencil for the Sports page.

Co-editors of the '61 COR JESU, Mary Theisen and Judi Landwehr soon became "old hands" at yearbook production.

Staff photographer Bill Nowak is ever on the alert for a camera subject.

JUNIOR JOURNALISTS EDIT CHRONICLE

Co-editors of the ACADEMY CHRONICLE, Carol Cotter and Spence Kisby proofread their first issue.

Mary Jo Fortino and Mary C. Bayer talk over circulation problems.

COR JESU STAFF STRIVES FOR THE BEST

Checks payable to the yearbook fund were always acceptable to Ad Captains Anne Johnson and Patrick Murphy.

Staff members spend many a weary hour "just looking" for an unique cover idea.

OUR BAND MEMBERS SET ACADEMY

The Sacred Heart Band, composed of twenty-nine members, and under the capable direction of Mr. Roland Kohl, made notable progress during the current year, — adding to its numbers as well as to its repertory. But, the advance of which it is singularly proud was the donning of striking new uniforms. Making its debut for the second annual music festival presented by Sacred Heart Grade School, and performing such popular selections as "Seventy-Six Trombones" and "Autumn Reverie," the band well-deserved the resounding applause from a capacity audience of nearly eight hundred interested parents and friends.

By the time graduation approaches, upperclassmen are often seen to have achieved a certain savoir-faire in social circles. Seniors Robert Witte and Karen Hackett show that the punch bowl may be taken as a matter of course at the Christmas J-Hop.

SOCIAL DEVELOPMENT

Wherein we are inspired:

- To consider and improve the well-being of others because all are members of the Mystical Body of Christ
- To gain enjoyment from a virtuous refined, varied, and cooperatively conducted social life.
- To appreciate the home as a social institution in which Catholic family ideals are promoted
- To utilize leisure time in a worthy manner.

HOMECOMING SURGES SPIRITS

The fighting Irish did "chug to Victory" as symbolized by the prize-winning Sophomore float.

Academy royalty parades through the streets of Mt. Pleasant following a line of seven floats.

The queen and her escort, Robert Witte, dance to the music of Hal Smith, as a finale to the Homecoming week-end.

The beaming faces of Michael Voisin, Susan Fox, Susan Beltinck, and Bernard McCormick reflect the atmosphere which prevailed throughout the week-end.

King James Hovey and Queen Mary Ellen Dionise, attended by Patrick Murphy and Mary Ellen Farnan, step forward to be crowned, the climax of the annual Cor Jesu ad drive.

Mr. James Morris compliments Rudelle Williams and Rita Wezensky on the success of the annual J-Hop. (above)

Seniors, Patrick Murphy, Karen Hockett, Joseph Sweeney, and take a break to plan for the evening ahead.

COR JESU AND J-HOP HIGHLIGHT WINTER FESTIVITIES

Senior parents pause for a sip of punch and a chat during intermission.

Sophomores, Jodi Theisen and Ginger Schied try to persuade their dates to dance.

Old Rome thrived again for a few short hours at the annual Junior-Senior Banquet in the formal Roman garden complete with the bubbling spring and busts of old Roman heroes. As an added feature, each senior girl received a single red rose as a remembrance. Following the Banquet, the gym was filled with the music of the Harry Vogel orchestra as the Senior prom, the climax of the graduation activities, got into swing.

Master of Ceremonies Patrick Murphy introduces Monsignor Edward N. Alt as Patricia Welniak awaits her toast to the Seniors.

Robert Heintz, Michael Truax, and Fred Hauck serve as busboys at the annual Junior-Senior Banquet.

BASKETBALL LOG '61

The Irish Team's hope of posting a successful Basketball Season took an early and deep plunge. Soon after the first few games, the winning spurt sagged to an all-time low total of two wins against thirteen losses for the regular season. Then Remus delivered the coup-de-grace, ousting the Irish in the first game of the District Tournament with a score of 63-49.

CIVIC RESPONSIBILITY

Wherein we are inspired:

- To love our country, to know and obey its laws, and to pray for those who govern it
- To apply the principles of social justice as set forth in the Papal Encyclicals
- To be mindful of national resources, aware of national economic problems, and observant of the laws governing them.
- To promote spiritual, mental, and physical health in ourselves, our families, and our community
- To give responsible direction to our lives, while maintaining confidence in and respect for God-given authority

Both the secret ambition and common goal of all seniors like Sue Powell and Patrick Murphy is the solemn acceptance on graduation night of a diploma, signifying for each a priceless legacy.

Class officers: Colleen McGuire, Vice president; Robert Foldesi, Treasurer; Susan Fox, President; and Guylyn King, Secretary.

VALEDICTORY

To the Seniors consigned to the task of assembling the 1961 Cor JESU its completion brings the quiet satiety of another "mission accomplished." Yet, with its final pages too, there comes the nostalgic knowledge that, having told our story, little else remains, save the formality of our graceful exit.

It is in this leave taking, however, that we are most aware of our personal indebtedness for the many endowments received from God, our parents, teachers, and for all the things that have made Sacred Heart Academy truly our Alma Mater. It is in our going forth that, by reason of our Catholic Education, we confidently commit ourselves to a world sorely in need of the One who could say "I am the Way, the Truth, and the Life."
