Introduction
We're Back-Start of the Year

"I like going back to school because you get to see how everyone has changed over the summer. The only thing that I don't look forward to is homework and tests."
-Tia Hackett

Changes: From Summer Vacation to the Start of the School Year

It's August once again and children from age six to eighteen know what that means: it's back to school. Time to trade in bathing suits for uniforms, summer baseball fans become faithful football followers, and late nights become early mornings.

Back to school rituals include clothes shopping and supply shopping. Senior Jenny Shafer made this comment about her thirteenth back to school blues, "I like to shop for new clothes and notebooks. It makes going back to tests, homework, and classes a little more bearable."

The people who have had more back to schools than anyone are the teachers. Ms. Korwinski, the chemistry/geometry/physics teacher, had this rather poignant comment on the whole experience. "I usually look forward to going back. By the end of the summer I miss all of my wonderful students."

Art teacher Guney Frostman enjoyed a trip to Belize before her return to Sacred Heart. "Getting away always makes me feel refreshed and ready to tackle the normal world."

Whatever your back to school routine is, it is important to get ready for a new school year. Whether it is going shopping or flying to Central America it makes the transition from summer vacation to school much easier.
New Classes at the Heart

Choir

The new SHA Choir filled the halls, not to mention the Church, with their melodic voices. They appeared at the Shadaga Auction to entertain and gave outstanding performances. We hope to hear more of them in the years to come.

Advanced Chemistry

Though no chemical explosions came from the room, sparks and a flaming piece of steel wool could be found on numerous occasions. This never curous class was ready to learn at all times and often non-class members were also present to soak up any unused knowledge. By the way Ms. K. do you still have that peanut butter jar?

French Class

This small group of mainly underclassmen, (sorry Ryan) brought to our school a new foreign way of speaking other than Latin or Spanish. These young eager minds went out of their way to forge a new path in SHA history.

Below: Patrick Hackett and Autumn Schaefer work hard to bring Burnie’s Park to SHA.

Carol Joly:
Carol visited many places and has had several new experiences including paintball and Mountain Dew. “I love school. Everybody is so nice, and I’m having a lot of fun. The only problem is the weather. It’s starting to get cold and when it gets colder, I’m gonna brown.”

Christian Villeneuve:
“It’s very good to come to a little school like this, because it is easy to meet people. The teachers are more strict than in my home country. My family is perfect, because they love sailing and hockey, like I do. The food is good here and I especially like Mountain Dew.”

Marcio Gomes:
“I plan on having fun, making new friends, learning how to take care of myself, & speak better English. This experience will help me grow and be more responsible because we will have to take care of ourselves and discover what is better for us by ourselves without our parents’ protection.”

Martin Roman:
Martin joined the Senior class halfway through the year. He was made to feel very welcome and fit in immediately.

Memories in the Making

"It was a great honor to be chosen to represent the Senior class as Homecoming representative. The parade, game, and dance were great. Thanks!"

"Homecoming was more fun than a barrel of monkeys. I wish it could have been shorter. Maybe next year it will be better, at least the food."

"This year's homecoming was the best so far mainly because everyone stayed until the end of the dance. I hope next year it is just as good."

"Homecoming was better than I thought it could be. It was a really cool experience. And I had lots of fun. I'm sure I'll never forget it."

What Mrs. Maddocks Remembers About The Younger Versions

-Tara Koester was my class organizer. She helped with crowd control.
-Jason Shirley: I remember talking Jason to tee-ball practice with my son.
-Jennifer Rademacher was always worried about everything.
-Ryan Bellinger was very quiet.
-Andrea Koeng was a very shy little girl.
-Marie Sweeney: One of the first snacks I brought was watermelon and Marie was the only one who didn't like it.
-Jeremy Deja had the prettiest eyelashes... I remember when he brought in Tigger for show and tell.
-Amy Verwey's grandfather told her that I chewed Snuff and had a wooden leg!
-Peter Courtright played the violin for us for Show and Tell.
-Carrie Thiesen was the tallest in kindergarten. She was shy.
-Julie Wood talked all the time.
-Harvey Schaefer worked very neat and was a Crayon for Halloween.
-Joe Gostola was so quiet he hasn't changed much.
-James Siefker was Scroopy for Halloween.

-Dan Osman

What advice do you have for the underclassmen??????
Be open-minded about everything.
-Angie Sweeney

Do your homework for Sister Thaddeus. Your day goes by much smoother if you do.
-Andrea Koenig

Beware of the SENIORS!!!!!!
-Amy Verwey

Don't plan your future waste it.
-Jeremy Deja

Don't take Latin.
-Alan Albrecht

Work hard because every quarter counts. Anybody can screw around and have fun, the hard thing for someone to do is to know when to have fun and when to work.

When our teachers were young....

Spending time with my friends was memorable. I lived in a small community and we were very close knit. We were all involved in class activities like student council and homecoming. Dancing was not allowed so when a sponsor would hold a dance outside the city limits it was very special.

-Mrs. Servoss

Our skirts were very short. We had a dress code until Senior year then we were allowed to wear jeans. (Not a lot of differences).

-Mrs. Stuart

How the times have changed...and how they have not

The styles that students wear now have more color, oversized, more variety, more grungy, and more to make a statement.

-Mr. Durocher

We wore blazers, dress shirts and ties to Catholic schools.

-Father Don

My Algebra teacher my Freshman year was teaching the home position of triangles on the x/y graph. We had a science teacher nobody liked who wore bow ties, so she called it the "Emerick Bow-Tie Effect". I have never forgotten it.

-Ms. Bartig

After lunch everyone gathered outdoors before the afternoon classes began. There was time for walking and talking. Always much too short.

-Sister Thaddeus

Styles haven’t changed that much since I graduated. We did wear more pastels or neon colors depending on what you preferred. For a couple years it was fashionable for girls to wear their collar up and tuck in their jeans into their socks.

-Ms. Sprague

I remember powder puff football games—the girls played and the boys were the cheerleaders.

-Mrs. Stuart
Teachers of the Heart

What were our teachers like in when they were our age?????

The girls all wore uniforms-navy blue jumpers and white blouses. Clothes for everyone were neat, yet casual. There was no need for a “dress-up day”, nor a “jean day”.

-Sister Thaddues

My favorite memory of high school is meeting my friends at the ice rink and warming house.

-Ginny Forsman

At homecoming we had a Snake Dance. After the parade people would line up behind the football team. The team would lead the snake to a big bonfire. We'd all get “fired up” for the big game.

-Ms. D

One of my favorite memories of high school is hitting a 2-strike, 2-out bases loaded triple in the 7th inning to beat our arch-rival Palm Beach High.

Yearbook

Applied Journalism is more than yearbook. It is pulling together pictures, stories, quotes, and ideas into one theme. This year the class decided to use "Memories of Yesterday...Dreams of Tomorrow." The yearbook staff works hard all year raising money as well as designing pages.

Second year editor, Andrea Koenig, had this to say about the class, "I think we worked really well together. Everyone contributed to the book and tried very hard to do their best."

The yearbooks have come a long way in these past years. They continue to improve and become more advanced in graphics and technology.

Right: Kristinia, Andrea, Jordan, and Chad pick out clip art for future pages.

Students Against Driving Drunk

The Sacred Heart Students Against Driving Drunk organization cares about its fellow students. At homecoming time they distributed dimes so people could call home if they didn’t have a sober ride. Every year they have speakers and other assemblies addressing drunk driving. Another tradition is that the club sells carnations as a fundraiser and as a service to the school.

This year instead of having the traditional officers committees were set for each month. The committee was responsible to plan an activity. During SADD awareness month the bell was rung every time a death occurred in the United States according to the statistics.

Practice Makes Perfect

Push the Limits

Before you have "the season to remember" you will have those practices you wish you could forget. Of the ten sports offered at Sacred Heart there are ten teams that practice. Skills, endurance, and experience help prepare the athletes for game time.

Athletes can spend up to three hours a day seven days a week working on their sport. Drills as well as weight-training are well worth it. The long hours prove the dedication that is vital to serious athletics.

Tia Hackett and Katherine Longworth comment on what they remember about volleyball practices, "Sweet 16's, Crazy 8's, and court sprints – that was our practice."

But as softball coach Jim Epple says, "You play how you practice."

Pep Assemblies

About ten times a year the Sacred Heart Academy Gymnasium is as loud as a game night at 2:00 in the afternoon. When the last class of the day is shortened you can be sure that there will be a pep assembly.

Assemblies are planned by Student Council. Usually they are for Homecoming, Christmas, and before big games like Reel City or Districts. Student Council President, Tara Koester, commented, “Planning pep assemblies is the best part of being on Student Council. Sometimes it is hard coming up with new activities for the students to participate in. It is all worth it though when you see that everyone is having a good time.”

Chants that are divided by grade, relay races, talks from coaches and captains, and competitions that the Seniors usually win because they are Seniors are all memories that students will have forever.

One Final Memory

The annual Senior Retreat was held on May 15, 1996 at Cranhill Ranch. The day long retreat was planned by a retreat committee led by Marie Sweeney. Marie put many hours into making the day a success.

This year's theme was "Where have we been, Where are we now, and Where are we going." Activities were planned that fit with the theme. A time capsule from the fourth grade was opened and a new one was made for the ten year reunion. A video showing the class happening was shown much to many people's embarrassment. During free time there was horseback riding, boating, and indoor games.

The day provided a time away from school to tie up loose ends. As the year came to a close students wanted to leave on a good note. Mysteriously the next day 33 Seniors came down with the same illness. However that's another story.

Right: Feeding the sheep provided hours of entertainment.

Seniors Trek Their Way to Toronto

This year the school decided to send the Seniors out of the country. Actually it was the class that decided to visit Toronto for trip. The three day trip was planned by the class officers and advisors with input from the class.

The fun filled days included shopping, an amusement park, the play Beauty and the Beast, museums, and a tour of the Skydome. No one complained about having to miss a day of school.

Trip is one of the last activities for the Senior class. Everyone had a great time even though the wake up calls came a little too early for most of the tired travelers.
